Riders digging deep for rematch with Tiger-Cats

Riders quarterback Darian Durant practises on Thursday. JEFF MACKEY/METRO

Game on Saturday. Ex-Riders Fantuz and Burris can expect some jeers, but mostly cheers, as they return to Taylor Field

JEFF MACKEY
jeff.mackey@metronews.ca

Andy Fantuz will be back in Mosaic on Saturday for the first time since parting ways with the Roughriders in February.

Fantuz played for six seasons with the Riders and was a fast fan favourite.

So far, with the Hamilton Tiger-Cats, the Chatham, Ont., native has gained 298 yards and two touchdowns. When the Riders beat the Ticats 43-16 on June 29, Fantuz was held to 49 yards.

While some expect Fantuz to be heckled on Saturday, others believe he'll get a warm reception.

Saturday's game against the Tiger-Cats will be a test of depth for the Riders.

With third receiver Rob Bagg out with a ligament injury, there will be some changes to the receiving core.

Receivers such as Jordan Sisco, Taj Smith and Terrance Jeffers-Harris are auditioning Saturday to see if they can fill the void.

But they are not alone. Patrick Neufeld, Terrell Maze and Macho Harris could also be earning some important game experience in other positions.

These players will be going up against a hot Tiger-Cats team with former Riders Fantuz and Henry Burris back on Taylor Field.

The last time these two teams met the Riders came away with a commanding 43-16 victory over Hamilton.

"They have grown, but we have grown also," Riders head coach Corey Chamblin said. "It doesn't matter who is in there — we have to be able to play them."

Saskatchewan still a good place to call home, immigrants say

Despite the unforeseen project delays that led to the layoffs of more than 20 Irish immigrants at PCL Construction, many Irish expats in Saskatchewan are still happy they made the trek.

Immigrant Ciara Watchorn, who helped the government plan its recruitment campaign, says people in Ireland are "queuing up to get in here. People don't see a future there for their families."

Cathy Murphy, executive director of the Irish Canadian Immigration Centre in Toronto, says immigrants are still excited about opportunities here. "I get a lot of calls from people about Saskatchewan," she said. "Word is finally getting out in Ireland about the West."

Murphy says the biggest fear of those who were laid off is that they are part of the federal Labour Market Opinion program, which means they are here temporarily and cannot work for another company. "There's no doubt that someone on an LMO is vulnerable," she said.

The province has been working with the immigrants since July 12, helping them navigate the system so they can find other employment and gain quicker entry into the Saskatchewan Immigrant Nominee Program.

CARLA NICHOLLS

Former U of R coach goes from coaching out of a car to helping Canadian athletes reach the Olympic podium

ON THE RIGHT TRACK TO OLYMPIC GLORY

DORIAN GEIGER
Metro in Saskatoon

Before track-and-field became a mainstay collegiate sport in Saskatchewan, Carla Nicholls was forced to use her car as an office while assuming the head coaching duties of the University of Regina track program.

Ten years later, Nicholls' thankless work behind Saskatchewan's track-and-field scenes as a coach has paid off. After helping lead Canada's Priscilla Lopes-Schliep to a bronze medal at the Beijing Summer Games in 2008, Nicholls is headed to London's Olympics.

"The dream of being at the Olympic Games has been in my heart since as long as I can remember. I truly believe there is no other event that is able to grab the attention of the entire world," said Nicholls via email from Kamen, Germany.

When Nicholls started coaching at the U of R in 2001, the position was unpaid and boasted just 17 athletes. Nicholls expanded the program's athlete base to roughly 90 in just a few years.

A former heptathlete, Nicholls said she had her heart set on being an Olympic athlete since she was a child.

"I pretended I was in the Olympic Games in my backyard for as long as I remember. Eventually I realized my love for track-and-field and my desire to be an Olympian was not a reality."

Nicholls, who is also a nurse, will work with Canadian athletes Mike Mason and Derek Drouin (men's high jump), Sarah Wells (women's 400-metre hurdles), Melanie Blouin (women's pole vault), Damian Warner (men's decathlon) and Saskatchewan product Brianne Theisen (women's heptathlon) in London.

Former University of Regina track-and-field coach Carla Nicholls (2001-09) will try to help Canadian athletes find the podium at the Summer Olympic Games in London when she takes the coaching reins for the national track team. CONTRIBUTED/CLAUSE ANDERSON

What do you think about Saskatchewan's representation at the Olympics?
We have the very talented Brianne Theisen, a very wonderful person and a fantastic athlete. She has been very successful. I can't wait to see what she can actually do if she puts it all together. I think she may open a few eyes in the world.

What's the most inspiring moment you've had as a coach?
When I can help an athlete on or off the track is an inspiring moment for me. If I can help just one athlete to be better at a skill, and even more importantly to be a better person, then I have done my job and that inspires me to continue on.

NANCY BRAWLEY

Diving judge heads to sixth Olympic Games

SASKATCHEWAN'S DIVING DECIDER

It will be 62-year-old Saskatchewan native Nancy Brawley's sixth Olympics experience when she travels to London for the Summer Games to judge diving. Brawley said the experience hasn't gotten old.

"You're in awe of everything that's going on and you're just really, really happy to be there and be able to be at the Olympics," she said.

Despite her diving career ending decades ago, Brawley has remained active in Saskatchewan, Canadian and international diving circles in every capacity possible.

She competed as a diver in the 1968 and 1972 Summer Olympics in Mexico City and Munich, respectively. From there, she became a diving broadcaster at the 1976 Montreal Olympics and a diving team leader for the 2004 Athens and 2008 Beijing Olympics.

Brawley became a diving judge in the 1970s and she has played a key role in implementing new guidelines for judging diving in Canada. She's also been inducted into the Canadian Aquatic Hall of the Fame and both Alberta and Ontario sports halls of fame.

Brawley's Olympic memories are many and mostly good. However, the Munich massacre of 1972 where Palestinian terrorists took 11 Israeli athletes and coaches hostage in the athletes' village, subsequently killing them, remains a terribly vivid recollection for Brawley.

"That was a downer. I couldn't believe it happened. I was really upset it happened. For something as sacred as the Olympics are from a sporting perspective it was a bad experience," Brawley described.

This will be the only opportunity Brawley will have to judge at the Olympics, as diving judges over 65 are not permitted to oversee events.

What's the most difficult aspect of being a judge?
Making a split-second decision on a score that took less than two seconds to perform and then have your score up and registered within five seconds. You have to have a huge amount of knowledge in the back of your brain.

Have divers ever scorned you for doling out poor scores?
There are always going to be some coaches and some athletes that didn't like what you did. That's just part of the job.

What got you into diving?
We lived across the street from the pool and there were six kids in our family.

Shooting victims with no insurance face big medical bills

Colorado. Unknown number of the injured still face a long recovery and the associated costs

Some of the victims fighting for their lives after being wounded in last week's Colorado theatre rampage may face enormous medical bills without the benefit of health insurance.

The U.S. doesn't have universal health coverage, though hospitals are required by federal law to stabilize patients during emergencies without regard to their ability to pay.

The Obama administration's health-care overhaul would cover millions more uninsured, but Republicans strongly object to its cost.

Members of the public have contributed nearly $2 million US to help victims, including the Warner Bros. studio that released the Batman movie that was showing when the gunman opened fire. But it's not clear how much of that money will cover medical expenses.

One victim's family is already raising money online. And three of the five hospitals treating victims said Wednesday they will limit or completely wipe out medical bills.

An unknown number of the victims, however, still face a long recovery and the associated medical costs without health insurance.

Nearly one in three Coloradans, or about 1.5 million, either have no health insurance or have coverage that is inadequate, according to a 2011 report by The Colorado Trust, a health-care advocacy group.

The highest uninsured rate is among adults between 18 and 34. Many victims are in that age group.

Among the uninsured victims is a 23-year-old aspiring comic Caleb Medley, who is in critical condition with a head wound. His wife, Katie, gave birth to their first child on Tuesday.

His family and friends said they have set a goal of raising $500,000 to cover his hospital bills and other expenses and were more than halfway there Wednesday.

Children's Hospital Colorado announced it would use donations and its charity care fund to cover the medical expenses of the uninsured. "We are committed to supporting these families as they heal," according to a statement from the hospital, which treated six shooting victims.

HealthOne, which owns the Medical Center of Aurora and Swedish Medical Center, also says it will limit or eliminate charges based on patients' individual circumstances. Those hospitals have treated 22 shooting victims. However, the company cautioned its policy may not apply to all doctors working in its hospitals.

The other two hospitals, Denver Health Medical Center and University of Colorado Hospital, where Medley is, wouldn't say whether they would assist shooting victims. However, they provided a combined $750 million in free care in 2011.

The key issue is what comes after the current hospital care, said Dr. Howard Brody, director of the Institute for the Medical Humanities at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston and a frequent critic of excessive medical costs.

"Many of these people, I assume, will need prolonged and expensive rehabilitation after their immediate injuries are dealt with, and that seems precisely what hospitals today are less and less willing to cover out of their own funds, and no law requires that they do so, as far as I am aware," he said. # Theatre shootout scene delays film's release

Warner Bros. has moved the release of Gangster Squad to January after the film's climactic cinema shootout scene drew comparisons to the Aurora, Colo., shooting.

Gangster Squad chronicles a bloody 1940s battle between Los Angeles police and mobsters. It culminates in a scene where gangsters shoot automatic weapons into a crowded movie theatre from behind the screen.

The film is expected to be reshot and edited. A spokesman for Warner Bros. declined to comment on how the film would be altered.

Gangster Squad had been planned for a Sept. 7 release. The postponement means Gangster Squad won't be eligible for Academy Awards consideration this year, shifting from a plum fall release to a month often considered a dumping ground.

It's a blow for an anticipated movie with a starry cast. Directed by Ruben Fleischer, it stars Sean Penn, Ryan Gosling, Emma Stone and Josh Brolin.

The trailer for the film, which included footage from the movie theatre scene, was pulled from theatres and the Internet after the Colorado shooting at a screening of The Dark Knight Rises.

Shot at the famous Grauman's Chinese Theater in Los Angeles, the scene is a centerpiece to the film, meaning reshoots may be extensive.

Though the Gangster Squad trailer had been paired with The Dark Knight Rises (also a Warner release), it didn't play in the Aurora theatre where a gunman killed 12 people last week.

This is the second time this year a high-profile studio movie has had its release altered by news events.

Twentieth Century Fox's The Watch, which is out Friday, had its title changed from Neighborhood Watch after the Trayvon Martin killing in Florida. The film's trailer and promotional materials were also adjusted to distance the film from the incident. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gun debate shot

The White House made clear Thursday that new legislation on gun control will not be on the political agenda this election year, as President Barack Obama and Republican challenger Mitt Romney engaged in their most extensive discussions on the issue since last week's Colorado theatre shootings. Their comments revived a sensitive debate that has faded to the background in national politics and been virtually nonexistent in this year's close presidential race. While Obama called for tougher background checks on Americans trying to buy a gun, he is not pushing for new gun-control legislation. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two years before the plea deal that was supposed to mean his quick exit from Guantanamo Bay, Omar Khadr offered to plead guilty to terrorism charges in Canada in exchange for a relatively lenient sentence and speedy transfer to Canada, documents show. The offer was one of two proposals Khadr's lawyers put to military commission authorities in 2008 in hopes of avoiding a trial. The convening authority rejected both out of hand. Ottawa's subsequent delay in allowing his transfer to a Canadian prison to serve out his sentence has drawn fierce criticism from Khadr's supporters. THE CANADIAN PRESS

B.C. landslide. Body of third victim recovered

Rescuers have recovered the body of a third victim who died after her family's home was levelled by a huge landslide in a southeastern British Columbia community.

Coroner Lisa LaPointe said 17-year-old Rachel Webber's body was found Wednesday evening near the front of what had been her home in the hamlet of Johnsons Landing.

LaPointe thanked everyone involved in the search, including volunteers and a forensic analyst who pinpointed the best locations to search in a debris field that covers more than 32 hectares.

The bodies of Webber's 64-year-old father, Valentine, and her 22-year-old sister, Diane, were found in the same area last week.

The search for Webber resumed Wednesday after rescue crews determined it was safe to go into the tiny Kootenay Lake area that was hit by the slide on July 12 after torrential rain led a mountain to give way.

A 64-year-old German woman named Petra Frehse remains missing and the search for her body has ended.

Despite digging a trench that was seven metres long and 10 metres wide, searchers were still not able to find her body.

"I'm very sorry that we weren't able to do that for the Frehse family, but where that house was located in the slide field just made it impossible."

Death certificates will be issued for all three members of the Webber family, while an application to presume the death of Frehse will also be submitted, LaPointe said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Access to information. Watchdog wants Tommy Douglas file opened

Canada's information watchdog is joining a seven-year battle to lift the shroud of secrecy over a decades-old intelligence dossier on socialist trailblazer Tommy Douglas.

Information commissioner Suzanne Legault is opposing the federal government's bid to overturn a court order to reconsider its refusal to publicly release much of the Douglas dossier.

Her decision to wade into the fray is something of an about-face for Legault's office.

Initially, her office maintained the government had "properly withheld" information on Douglas from The Canadian Press, which requested the file in 2005 under the Access to Information Act.

The Canadian Press successfully obtained a court order last August for fuller disclosure of the file, but the Harper government is now appealing that ruling. The appeal is set to be heard on Oct. 3.

Lawyer Paul Champ said it appears the information commissioner's office now regrets having backed the government's decision to heavily censor the Douglas file.

Daran Lin breaks down at the urn bearing the remains of his son, Jun Lin, during funeral services Thursday in Montreal. PAUL CHIASSON/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mourners lay Jun Lin to rest

Funeral. Mother of murder victim says she has started to develop sympathy for Magnotta

It's a word the mother of dismembered Chinese student Jun Lin never thought she'd associate with the man charged with murdering her son in brutal fashion.

Sympathy.

Originally, sorrow and anger dominated Zhigui Du's thoughts as she asked herself how such an appalling thing could happen to her son in a kind and peaceful country like Canada.

But as she laid her 33-year-old son to rest Thursday, Du said she has begun to feel sympathy on some level toward a man she calls the "devil."

"Back then, I could only use 'devil' to describe the alleged murderer," said Du, whose son's gruesome murder captured worldwide attention.

"But later on, when I learned more about this suspect through different news sources, especially about his upbringing, I shockingly discovered my other self who has started to develop sympathy for this person described as 'devil.'"

Du, who was too distraught to attend the funeral itself, made the remarks through an interpreter during a eulogy she gave at a later news conference.

Lin's dismembered torso was found May 29 stuffed in a suitcase dumped outside a Montreal apartment building. Various body parts were found mailed to different parts of the country and in a Montreal park.

Luka Rocco Magnotta has pleaded not guilty to several charges in connection with Lin's death, including a count of first-degree murder.

Any sympathy on Thursday was mixed with a healthy dose of grief and sadness as Lin's family said their final farewells.

They decided to bury their son's remains in the land he loved, and in the city he loved most.

In an emotional 30-minute ceremony, Lin's father sobbed openly as he sat in the front row. Before the ceremony began, he entered the chamber and clutched his son's urn, crying uncontrollably.

Father Henry Rodriguez, who presided over the funeral, called Lin a loving and considerate son who loved life. His life was ended by an "evil act."

"We need to take this opportunity to turn this horrible situation into something positive that brings justice and peace back to this family and to society," Rodriguez said.

"When he left China and came to Canada to study, he wanted us to say goodbye with our smiles," she said.

"And today, I think it's time to wipe our tears and see our son go with smiles on our face."

Football scandal. Mystery man says he was the one seen being sexually abused by Sandusky in locker-room as a boy

For months, the identity of the boy who was sexually assaulted in the locker-room showers by Jerry Sandusky was one of the biggest mysteries of the Penn State abuse scandal. Now a man has come forward to claim he was that boy and is threatening to sue the university.

The man's lawyers said Thursday they have gathered "overwhelming evidence" on details of the abuse by Sandusky, the former assistant football coach convicted of using his positions at Penn State and as head of a youth charity to molest boys over a period of 15 years.

Jurors convicted Sandusky last month on 45 sex-abuse counts. Those included offences related to so-called Victim 2 largely on the testimony of Mike McQueary, who was a team graduate assistant at the time and described seeing the shower attack.

"Our client has to live the rest of his life not only dealing with the effects of Sandusky's childhood sexual abuse, but also with the knowledge that many powerful adults, including those at the highest levels of Penn State, put their own interests and the interests of a child predator above their legal obligations to protect him," the lawyers said in a news release.

Report blasts officials

A recent report conducted by former FBI director Louis Freeh and commissioned by Penn State criticized top school officials for not attempting to identify Victim 2, saying it showed "a striking lack of empathy."

- It said officials looked the other way because they were afraid of bad publicity.

They did not name their client, and The Associated Press generally does not identify victims of sex crimes without their consent.

The university said it was taking the case seriously but would not comment on the pending litigation.

Penn State now faces an unprecedented $60-million US fine from the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the prospect of multiple lawsuits by the victims.

The statement from the man's attorneys said Victim 2 suffered "extensive sexual abuse over many years both before and after the 2001 incident Michael McQueary witnessed."

Most remaining Zellers stores to close their doors

Hudson's Bay Co.
Parent company says running the last 64 locations is no longer viable

Zellers stores may soon join now-defunct Canadian chains as a relic of the retail past after its parent company said Thursday it will close most of the 64 remaining locations, affecting up to 6,400 jobs.

Hudson's Bay Co. — Zellers Inc.'s parent company — has been contemplating what to do with the brand since last year when it sold the majority of the leases for its 279 discount stores to Target Corp. for $1.83 billion.

Spokeswoman Tiffany Bourré said Zellers is "considering options" for certain locations, including "rebranding some stores" — a determination that has yet to be made.

Zellers, which offers everything from housewares to hosiery, has faced an onslaught of competition from large U.S. retailers in recent years, most notably from Walmart, which has been expanding into a one-stop destination with dry-cleaning services and a full suite of groceries. Zellers was one of the last remaining large Canadian discount retailers after the Woolco, BiWay and Bargain Harold's brands became extinct years ago. The company said it operates 64 stores that were not acquired by Target, or were already slated for closure.

Zellers has been a key part of the Hudson Bay portfolio since 1978, emerging as the company's discount retail subsidiary by offering clothing and household items at lower price points.

It remained in the HBC fold as the company refocused its efforts on its core retail business in the 1980s and 1990s.

In recent years the company has made efforts to revitalize its Bay stores, hiring former Holt Renfrew executive Bonnie Brooks as chief executive officer, introducing high-end boutique spaces in its Toronto flagship store, and securing the rights to produce uniforms and merchandise for Canada's Olympic athletes.

Kansas City Internet going warp speed

Google Inc. revealed Thursday what it will charge for its long-awaited, ultra-fast "gigabit" Internet service in Kansas City, about 100 times faster than a basic cable modem: $70 US per month. The service is intended as a showcase for what's technically possible. Bypassing the local cable and phone companies, Google has spent months and an unknown amount of money pulling its own optical fibre through the Kansas City region.

Talk money before walking down the aisle: Experts

Shannon Fostka, who has concerns about how to share finances after she gets married, poses for a photo with her fiancé Jeff Stritzel, at their Toronto home on Monday. MICHELLE SIU/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bride-to-be Shannon Fostka's wedding plans don't include a fairy tale dress or lavish reception — she's done it before and this time around she's pledged to start married life on a sound financial footing.

After reuniting with fiancé Jeff Stritzel — an old high school friend who has also been married before — through Facebook and dating for about a year, Fostka, a 36-year-old marketing specialist, wants to make sure they're on the same page of the balance book.

While it's easy to get swept up in the romance of a wedding, marriage is also a contract that comes with weighty financial decisions: Will you take on each other's debts and assets? Are you going to merge all your money or keep some separate? And how are you going to divvy up bill payments and other responsibilities?

These are the type of questions you need to ask one another before walking down the aisle. Canada's divorce rate is 41 per cent and money is one of the big things couples fight about.

Most importantly, couples should be up front about their situations and have a plan before going in — written if possible, experts say.

Alim Dhanji, a certified financial planner at Assante Financial Management, suggests that writing up a budget before getting married can help open a dialogue and bring a person's financial past to light.

If one person is bringing in debt, talk about whether you're willing to take that on, or whether it's better to wait to get married until after that debt is paid.

Ford recall. Escape SUV has sticky throttle

Ford is recalling nearly 485,000 Escape and Mavericks to fix sticking gas pedals that can cause crashes.

The worldwide recall affects the 2001 through 2004 model years that are powered by 3-litre V-6 engines with cruise control. It comes just over a week after U.S. safety regulators began investigating the small SUVs, which are called Mavericks in Europe.

The recall affects 421,000 Escapes in the U.S. The rest are in Canada, Mexico, Europe, Asia and some smaller markets.

The U.S. National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has received 68 complaints about the problem, including 13 crashes, nine injuries and one death. A teenage girl died when an Escape crashed in Arizona in January.

It's the third recall in two weeks for the Escape, which was the top-selling SUV in the U.S. last month. A week ago Ford recalled 11,500 of the all-new 2013 models with 1.6-litre engines because the fuel lines can crack and leak gasoline, causing fires. A few days before that, it recalled 10,000 2013 Escapes to fix carpet padding that could interfere with braking.

Madoff victims. Trustee hopes to return $2.4B more

Victims of imprisoned Bernard Madoff's Ponzi scheme could be getting back more of their stolen money.

Irving Picard, the trustee in charge of liquidating Madoff's assets, is asking a New York court for permission to distribute another $1.5 billion to $2.4 billion US to investors who lost money in Madoff's fraudulent investments.

Picard's job is to recover as much money as possible for the victims, and the process has been arduous. Ever since Madoff's firm collapsed, more than three-and-a-half years ago, the victims who are trying to get their money back have filed lawsuits and made other complaints over how Picard has chosen to distribute the money.

Legal battle. Wheat board calls on Supreme Court

Eight former farmer-elected directors of the Canadian Wheat Board are asking the Supreme Court of Canada for leave to appeal a lower-court ruling on the way the federal government stripped the agency of its marketing monopoly.

Supporters of the board's monopoly have been arguing the federal government didn't follow a law that required it to let grain farmers vote on the future of the wheat board.

A Federal Court judge had ruled in favour of grain farmers who wanted such a vote, but that ruling was later overturned in the government's favour by the Federal Court of Appeal. Last December, the Conservatives scrapped the board's monopoly on marketing Western wheat and barley starting Aug. 1. THE CANADIAN PRESS

1 Olympic insecurity. There's about one soldier for every athlete ready to take part in the 2012 London Games. At least I think they're ready. On a visit to London, U.S. presidential candidate Mitt Romney, who organized the 2002 Salt Lake City Olympics, said the last-minute security issues in London were "disturbing." That prompted U.K. Prime Minister David Cameron to retort that anybody can organize the Olympic Games "in the middle of nowhere." England 1, Tea Party 0.

2 Love bites. Robert Pattinson is "heartbroken and angry" (says a source) and has moved out of the Beverly Hills home he shared with Kristen Stewart, his Twilight co-star, after she was caught biting someone else's neck. The other party was not a werewolf, but the director of Stewart's latest movie Snow White and the Huntsman — an entirely different kind of predator.

3 Speaking of bats. Christian Bale, whose Batman series may have inspired James Holmes to allegedly murder a dozen innocent moviegoers, shows he, at least, understands the difference between reality and illusion by turning up at the bedsides of the survivors and attending memorial services for the dead. Holmes, meanwhile, ain't even close: He reportedly keeps asking his jailer how the movie ends. With any luck, he'll spend eternity in hell still wondering.

4 The war between Alberta and B.C. The nation is mesmerized as the two western-most premiers duke it out over royalties and risk regarding the yet-to-be-approved Enbridge pipeline carrying Alberta oilsands oil across B.C. to port for Asian customers. B.C.'s Christy Clark wants less risk and more royalties; Alberta's Alison Redford says: Bite me! Are we beginning to sense a theme here?

8 Speaking of birds. It's hard to believe, but Twitter went down Thursday right in the middle of all the above exciting stuff, probably because everyone was tweeting about Robert and Kristen's vampire games. For about an hour, no birds sang. And then, of course, the most popular topic was #WhenTwitterWasDown … after it went up.

Photo of island and luminous plankton wins public vote

In this amazing island-and-sea photograph, you can almost see Van Gogh's famous painting The Starry Night. The image of greenish phytoplankton swirling around Gotland, a Swedish island in the Baltic Sea, was voted by the public as the top image from NASA's Earth as Art collection. The collection is based on more than 40 years' worth of images from the space agency's Earth-observation satellites.

Since 1972, NASA's Landsat earth-observing program has become a vital reference worldwide for understanding scientific issues related to land use and natural resources.

Beyond the scientific information they supply, some Landsat images are simply striking to look at, presenting spectacular views of mountains, valleys and islands as well as forests, grasslands and agricultural patterns.

Q & A

'Great combination of colours and patterns'

In your opinion, what made this particular photo a winning one?
This image of Gotland — acquired in July 2005 — was a particularly popular one thanks to its great combination of colours and patterns.

What is also noteworthy — and especially so for biologists — concerns the blooms of phytoplankton. These microscopic organisms contain a green chlorophyll pigment they use to generate nutrients with the help of sunlight. But in this area near Gotland, the clutters of phytoplankton are very unusual.

The Watch shifts from police procedural to comedy to alien invasion. HANDOUT

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Scripts that go clunk in the night

The Watch. Three of the funniest guys around can't even save this lacklustre comedy

Richard: Mark, The Watch mixes and matches an alien invasion story with a police procedural story and comedy in the same way that it throws together its three over the title stars, Stiller, Hill and Vaughn. That is to say, sloppily. It hopes to win audiences by giving them a little of everything, but feels like the cinematic equivalent of an unmade bed. Luckily newcomer (to us anyway) Richard Ayoade spices things up.

Mark: Richard, I didn't even like this movie when it was called Ghostbusters. And that movie had an iconic cast and was very much of its moment. But this flick feels so ripped off that even the colour of the slime is the same. Yes, Ayoade is good, and I hope to see him in a better movie soon. And Vince Vaughan can't help but be funny. But you're right about the sloppiness of the whole enterprise. Every scene and every character has a different tone, resulting in a tone-deaf comedy. I don't think I laughed once.

RC: I liked this more than you think. I laughed, but the giggles didn't come as the result of a well-crafted script or an intelligent diction. They come because this crew of veterans knows how to suck a laugh out of almost anything. Vaughn made me laugh here and there, but his fast-talking act wore thin for me a long time ago. Ditto Stiller and Hill and their trademarks. I was happy to have a breath of fresh air in the form of Ayoade, who can make a throwaway line like, "That was stressful," the funniest gag in the film.

MB: Yes, we're dealing with comedy pros here. The acting isn't the problem. The script — even the idea of the script — is. This wheezy contraption felt completely fake, especially at the end when the movie turns violent. I mean, come on, is anyone in the theatre supposed to be scared of the aliens? Or care about the "heroes?" This is Hollywood committee writing at its worst, Richard, and you know it!

RC: I agree, but if you go in like I did, with low to no expectations, you'll laugh occasionally. Not loudly, and not often, but you'll laugh. If it is alien comedy that you're after, however, you may be better off renting Paul, starring Nick Frost, Simon Pegg and a foul mouthed ET.

MB: Or Galaxy Quest or even Earth Girls are Easy. I think if this had been a pure comedy, or even a pure thriller, I might have enjoyed it, but it's a hybrid in which the two genres cancel each other out. At least Ghostbusters knew it was silly.

Synopsis

When a security guard is found skinned alive at a Costco, the store's manager Evan (Ben Stiller) vows to find his employee's killer. To get the job done he starts a Neighborhood Watch with three misfit volunteers from the community. Bob (Vince Vaughn) is a manchild with a wild child daughter. Franklin (Jonah Hill) is a psycho cop wannabe and Jamarkus (Richard Ayoade) joined because he hopes it will help him meet women. They discover the killer may not be of this planet!

Luke Skywalker joins the dark side in new crime flick

Sushi Girl. Sadistic thief role allowed Mark Hamill to play the bad guy – and he enjoyed every minute

Mark Hamill is a pop culture icon — and now a sadistic robber in his latest film. PAUL CHIASSON/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Star Wars could have been a lot different if Mark Hamill had picked his role.

"I remember reading Star Wars and thinking, boy, I wish I could be playing Darth Vader — that's the part,' " Hamill said.

There was never any question of that, however, and he went on to become a pop culture icon as plucky Luke Skywalker, the intrepid space adventurer who helps derail the evil Vader's plans for galactic domination in three Star Wars films.

Hamill's latest role is a galaxy away from the earnest Skywalker. In Sushi Girl, a crime noir flick having its international premiere at Montreal's Fantasia Film Festival, he plays Crow, a sadistic robber who inflicts pain with all the nonchalance of a chat between Skywalker and his robot pal R2D2.

"Every actor wants to push the envelope and explore the extremes on both sides," Hamill said, calling Skywalker "an icon of virtue."

But playing villains has proven lucrative for him too, with one of the most notable being his over-the-top vocal interpretation of The Joker in the animated Batman TV series and video games.

"It was a great kick to be cast as The Joker because he's an icon 180 degrees away from Luke," Hamill said, agreeing it's often more enjoyable to play the villain than the hero.

"You're messing up the chance for good to succeed and that's a lot of fun."

In Sushi Girl, Hamill teams with a roster of horror and action movie stars including James Duval from Donnie Darko, serial heavy Andy Mackenzie (Shoot 'Em Up), Michael Biehn, who duked it out with Arnold Schwarzenegger in The Terminator, and Tony Todd, who chilled filmgoers in The Candyman and has appeared on various TV shows including 24.

Todd said the script for Sushi Girl reminded him of other prominent genre films such as Asphalt Jungle and The Killing, which Hamill calls his favourite Stanley Kubrick movie.

"I just wanted to get away from the career wearing prosthetics and hooks on my hands and have a role that was 100 per cent," said Todd, adding he saw the crime flick as a chance to "take things to another level."

Travis Wall has All the Right Moves

Dancing days. Emmy-nominated choreographer brought his talent, and drama, to TCA press tour

AMBER RAY
Metro World News

The work of Travis Wall is everywhere. The young dancer is choreographing routines on the current season of Fox's So You Think You Can Dance; his moves are featured in the film Step Up Revolution, hitting theatres Friday; and on Tuesday, his mission to found the dance company Shaping Sound with his friends is documented on the new Oxygen reality series, All the Right Moves.

The 24-year-old SYTYCD veteran — he was the runner-up on the competition's second season — has, undeniably, become a bankable name in the dance world.

That notoriety doesn't always sit well with his pals — including Shaping Sound co-founders Nick Lazzarini, winner of the first season of SYTYCD, and Teddy Forance, who has performed with Lady Gaga and Janet Jackson — which makes Wall's story perfect for a docu-series. Artistry and drama collide in every episode.

Travis Wall. GETTY IMAGES

"When we were getting things kicked off, I definitely took the leadership role," Wall said of his group at the Television Critics Association press tour in Beverly Hills, Calif., on Wednesday. "And through the season, we definitely see control struggles. Our egos are definitely tested."

From episode one there is concern over the shadow Wall's spotlight may cast on his partners, particularly after the suggestion is made to rename the company Travis Wall's Shaping Sound.

"That was not the intention of starting this dance company, to throw my name on it," Wall insisted.

Instead, Wall hopes Shaping Sound, whose co-founders were just nominated for an Emmy for their choreography on Dancing with the Stars, receives even more widespread recognition for their talent.

"Our goal in the entire series is to ... tour the United States with our dance company," Wall said.

"We can pay our dancers. We can travel the country together, have fun, party, dance, and just have the time of our lives."

Animal Kingdom has something to say about the human condition

The Looking Away. New album carries theme of detachment — where people are separate from each other and the world

KILLIAN YOUNG
Metro World News in New York

British ambient alt-rockers Animal Kingdom derive their band name from two opposite sources: science and religion.

Singer, guitarist and pianist Richard Sauberlich says he was reading books like The Naked Ape and The Human Zoo, both by Desmond Morris.

"He's an anthropologist who examines human behaviour through the prism of animal behaviour, really," says Sauberlich.

"And at the same time, I saw this picture in a children's Bible of Noah, in the ark, obviously. ... And the two just came together, joined together in my head."

He says the two ideas made him realize something about the human condition.

"I don't think we're necessarily, as humans, separate from or above the animals in terms of our basic drives and motivations," he says.

This inclusive philosophy stands in stark contrast to the material on Animal Kingdom's sophomore album, The Looking Away, where the main theme is one of detachment.

On the album, humans are removed from their animal roots, as well from the tragedies of the world.

"I think it's something that we all do," Sauberlich says of the tendency toward tuning out bad news.

"It takes an incredibly strong and brave character to stare at something that makes them uncomfortable 24/7, 365 (days) a year."

If there's one thing Animal Kingdom are not removed from, it's social media. While recording The Looking Away, the band asked fans to record themselves singing a lyric that would be compiled together for the ending of the track Straw Man. Although the fan-inspired version of the track didn't make the final cut, Sauberlich says that he was impressed by the response.

"It almost sounded like a lullaby with loads of people singing very subtly," Sauberlich says of the ending.

"There's a nice message to the lyric, (which is) reinforced by ... the fans believing in doing it."

Band vs. Food

Challenges. Animal Kingdom also are active on Twitter. Sauberlich says that he and his fellow band members are big fans of the Travel Network's Man vs. Food, and have conversed over Twitter with Adam Richman, the star and host of the show, on where the band can try ridiculous gastric challenges while they tour the United States for the first time this summer.

King of the surf guitar on the road, helping others with cancer

Dick Dale. Musician tries to leave his own pain behind as he tours to connect with other sufferers of the disease

NOLAN GAWRON
Metro Boston

Though it may be hard to believe, Dick Dale, king of the surf guitar, is actually from Massachusetts. Dale was born in South Boston and raised in Quincy.

"I have many, many fond memories there," notes Dale. "I remember playing Silent Night as an instrumental with my acoustic guitar in the winter at Quincy Point and walking home in the snow."

When his father got a job offer from Howard Hughes in 1954, the family moved to California and Dale began surfing — a hobby that would provide the primary influence for his signature sound.

"Gene Cooper's drums and the way he accentuated became my picking style. I went from that to copying the sound of getting caught up in a very big wave," says Dale.

"I was also raising lions and tigers and preserving the breeds of the jungle. When they would scream to me to be fed or to come play with them they would go 'Yaoooooo.' I would try to imitate that sound on my guitar. So it was a mixture of everything — Gene Cooper, lions and tigers, and the ocean."

Besides being known as founder of surf rock, Dale is also known reverently as the "father of heavy metal."

"In those days the sound was created by an output transformer and they were only 10 or 15 watts and only had 6-to-8 inch speakers," notes Dale. "I started buying these things and they would keep catching on fire because I was pushing the ampage."

After his friend Leo Fender noticed the demand for a bigger sound, he went to work on making Dale the first ever 100-watt amplifier.

"We plugged in the amplifier and it was like going from a VW Bug to a Testarossa racecar," says Dale. "That's when I made the world's ears bleed. Then we got all the people who copied me."

Now 75, Dale is coping with cancer and diabetes. While his health issues have kept him from surfing, they haven't stopped him from touring. Travelling with his son who plays drums, Dale's wife also joins him on his journey as his nurse.

"She's the one keeping me alive," says Dale.

"We're on the road to help people going through the same thing that I'm going through and to have a different attitude and forget about our pain by helping other people deal with theirs. So we laugh about it, we swear about it and we say, 'What can we do for you?'"

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Katherine Jackson. ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Katherine's lawyer vows to get her reinstated as guardian

The Jackson family's recent dispute seems to be at least partially resolved, as Katherine Jackson has been reunited with her grandchildren.

"Grandma's here!" Paris Jackson, her 14-year-old granddaughter, posted to Twitter.

Katherine, who is legal guardian for Paris and her two brothers — children of the late Michael Jackson — was reported missing after she was spirited away to Arizona to rest without her grandchildren being notified. The kids' cousin, TJ Jackson, was granted temporary custody this week, but now that Katherine is back she intends to regain custody, according to Hollyscoop.

"This is creating some havoc that we need to nip in the bud," her lawyer, Perry Sanders, says.

"I intend to get her immediately reinstated as the guardian."

Lindsay Lohan

Lohan rear-ends Mustang

Lindsay Lohan has reportedly been involved in another car accident, according to TMZ.

During a shopping trip in West Hollywood, the troubled starlet reportedly rear-ended a silver Mustang that wasn't moving, causing "minor and cosmetic" damage to the Mustang and Lohan's Porsche.

"We were sitting at a light and somebody hit us," the driver of the other car tells the website, adding that a male companion of Lohan's left his number with them before they took off to avoid paparazzi.

Pattinson relationship heading to its Twilight

THE WORD
Monica Weymouth
scene@metronews.ca

Not surprisingly, Robert Pattinson has packed up and left the Los Angeles home he shared with Kristen Stewart. This comes after Us Weekly published photos of his girlfriend and Twilight co-star in the midst of a not-so-discreet fling with director Rupert Sanders.

Although Stewart issued a weepy public appeal for forgiveness, it appears Pattinson isn't having any of it — maybe because, like Us Weekly, he noticed that the L.A. Dodgers hat she was wearing in the photos looks suspiciously similar to one he's frequently spotted in.

"I'm not sure they'll be able to recover from this," a source associated with Twilight tells People magazine, adding that Pattinson isn't in contact with Stewart and "is heartbroken and angry."

Tell us, source, how does Kristen feel?

"Kristen really loves Rob more than anything," they continue.

"He's all that matters to her right now."

There's plenty more to come from this: Stewart is reportedly preparing to personally apologize to Sanders' wife, and the final Twilight circus doesn't hit theatres until November.

In other words: If we have to feel like a sleazy Cheaters B-team crew, so do you, so try to sit back and enjoy the ride.

Jeremy Renner

Renner not prepared for what popped up

Jeremy Renner doesn't have the best luck with flights, he tells Jimmy Kimmel during an interview.

"A lot of times when I'm on the plane, I have to sleep. And I'm not a good sleeper on the plane," the Bourne Legacy star explains. "I had to fly from London to Los Angeles for dinner, and then get right back on a plane to London. ... Somebody gave me some pills, like Ambien. So I took a little sleeping pill, popped it and realized nothing's happening — but something else was happening!"

Renner soon realized he had accidentally taken a Viagra pill instead.

"Not only did I not sleep the entire flight, but there was ... 'camping' ... happening," he says. "The flight attendants were sort of in on the joke. They were like, 'Can we get you anything, Mr. Renner?'"

Christina Aguilera

Aguilera sparks rumour, insists she isn't pregnant

Christina Aguilera prompted pregnancy rumours after she was spotted leaving a doctor's office this week with boyfriend Matthew Rutler, but insiders insist to Hollyscoop that the singer and reality show judge is not expecting.

Instead, Aguilera was reportedly at the Sherman Oaks Medical Center for a routine checkup relating to an old back injury.

Keeping things cool on hot summer nights

Machines for making shaved ice at home have become common. Hand-cranked models can sell for less than $10, with more powerful electric versions averaging $20 and up. But if you don't have or want a machine, it's also easy to make granita-style shaved ice.

ALISON LADMAN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cherry Cola Shaved Ice

- Four 12-oz cans cola soda (6 cans are needed if making granita)
- 12-oz bag frozen cherries, thawed
- Chopped maraschino cherries, to garnish

1. In saucepan over high heat, bring cola to a boil. Use caution and stir regularly until the foam subsides. Boil until mix reduced to 1 cup, about 20 minutes.

2. In blender, purée cherries until smooth. Stir the cherries into the reduced cola and cook for another 2 minutes. Strain mix through fine mesh strainer, discarding any solids. Allow mix to cool. Refrigerate until using.

3. To use with shaved ice, drizzle a bit of the syrup over a cone or bowl of ice, then garnish with chopped maraschino cherries.

4. Granita: Stir 2 more 12-oz cans of cola into the entire batch of cooled syrup. Pour into a 9-by-13-inch pan and freeze. Every 20 minutes, use a fork to scrape and stir the mixture until it is firm with small ice crystals. Spoon into dishes and garnish with chopped maraschino cherries.

Coconut Lime Shaved Ice

- 2 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/3 cup lime juice
- Zest of 2 limes
- Cream of coconut, to drizzle

1. In a small saucepan over medium heat, combine the sugar, water, lime juice and lime zest. Heat, stirring until the sugar dissolves, about 3 to 4 minutes. Remove from the heat and allow the mixture to cool completely. Refrigerate until ready to use.

2. To use with shaved ice, drizzle a bit of the syrup over a cone or bowl of ice, then drizzle cream of coconut over the top.

3. Granita: Stir another 1 1/2 cups of water and 1/2 cup lime juice into the entire batch of chilled syrup. Pour the mixture into a 9-by-13-inch pan and freeze. Every 20 minutes, use a fork to scrape and stir the mixture until it is firm with small ice crystals. Gently fold and swirl 1/2 cup cream of coconut into the mixture, then scoop into bowls or glasses to serve.

Mocha Shaved Ice

- 2 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup cocoa powder
- 3 tablespoons instant coffee granules
- 1 cup water
- Shaved chocolate, to garnish

1. In a small saucepan over medium heat, combine the sugar, cocoa powder, instant coffee and water. Whisk until the sugar and instant coffee dissolve. Remove from the heat and strain the mixture through a fine mesh strainer. Allow to cool completely. Refrigerate until ready to use.

2. To use with shaved ice, stir the syrup then drizzle a bit over a cone or bowl of ice, then garnish with shaved chocolate.

3. Granita: Stir another 2 1/2 cups of water into the entire batch of cooled syrup. Pour into a 9-by-13-inch pan and freeze. Every 20 minutes, use a fork to scrape and stir the mixture until it is firm with small ice crystals. Spoon into dishes and garnish with shaved chocolate.

Unless they make chug-a-lugging an Olympic sport, the only torch I'll ever carry is for that brunette I had the hots for in university.

I do love London and can't think of a better place to watch our athletes compete — on TV from the comfort of one of the city's multitude of old school pubs.

They take drinking beer very seriously in England, with a pint of almost every variety of ale tracing its roots back to somewhere in the United Kingdom.

While the taps advertising huge multinational producers dominate modern London's liquor landscape, you can still get a glass of local brew at the public houses owned by individual breweries.

Fuller's is the city's oldest, having pumped out suds in its Chiswick brewery since 1845. Its soft, smooth and creamy London Pride Ale (500 ml, $2.80 - $3.44) is, well, the pride of London.

I'm partial to its Organic Honey Dew Ale (500 ml, $3.35 - $3.95), an all-natural, lightly malty creation with a subtle bitterness and just a touch of bee juice.

Jays dodge sweep with two blasts and a bunt

MLB. Toronto bounces back from Wednesday's 16-0 drubbing by Athletics

A pair of big blasts and a bunt helped the Toronto Blue Jays avoid a sweep at the hands of the surging Oakland Athletics.

Edwin Encarnacion hit a three-run homer in the fourth and Kelly Johnson hit a solo shot in the seventh as the Blue Jays beat Oakland 10-4 Thursday, stopping the Athletics' winning streak at seven games.

But in between the homers there was a bunt in the sixth by Travis Snider on a safety squeeze with runners at second and third that scored two runs when Oakland left-hander Tommy Milone lost control on his throw to first.

The throw hit Snider and allowed a second run to score on the play to give the Jays a 5-4 lead, and they never looked back.

"In that spot we're playing for a run just to tie things up," Blue Jays manager John Farrell said. "Fortunately they mishandled the ball and we end up scoring two runs."

Milone said he rushed the throw.

"When he first squared I thought maybe I would have a play at home but then I kind of saw the runner out of the corner of my eye and he looked like he was going to be safe anyway," Milone said.

Ticket prices set to rise in Saskatchewan; Fred Stamps under-achieving; and Blue Bombers missing retired defensive lineman

CFL EXTRA POINTS
Dan Toth
regina@metronews.ca

Saskatchewan Roughriders: Not everyone is on-side with Regina's decision to construct a new $278-million, 33,000-seat football stadium for the Riders. Despite a $100-million loan from the province, an $80-million grant and the city's $73-million contribution toward the construction of the facility, Riders fans will still be tagged with a $12.50 service charge per game, ramping up the cost of already pricey Roughriders tickets.

B.C. Lions: Lions defensive lineman Khalif Mitchell has the right to appeal his two-game suspension as part of the CFLPA's bargaining agreement with the league. But shouldn't the Lions management (Wally Buono) have stepped in and made it clear he needs to take his medicine or face a team suspension of similar length for hyper-extending the arm of Eskimos offensive lineman Simeon Rottier last Friday?

Calgary Stampeders: The Stamps' addition of eight-year CFL vet Tad Kornegay, who recorded 39 tackles and two interceptions in 15 games with the Lions last season, is a timely acquisition. With Stamps veteran cornerback Keon Raymond (hamstring), halfback Brandon Smith (leg) and linebacker Marvin White (hamstring), all on the mend, they will need the versatile defender.

Edmonton Eskimos: Esks receiver Fred Stamps is the CFL's early season under-achiever. Although still coming back from a serious groin injury suffered in 2011, and saddled with new starting QB Steven Jyles, Stamps had just 13 catches for 110 yards prior to Thursday night's game against Winnipeg.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats: Henry Burris has erased any notion that he's past his prime as a CFL QB with 360 yards passing and four touchdowns last week that earned him the CFL's offensive-player-of-the-week honours. The Tiger-Cats pivot completed 27 of 30 passes against Montreal, tying him with Jason Maas for the fifth-best single-game completion percentage (90) in CFL history.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers: Doug Brown's retirement might have had a greater negative effect on the Bombers defence than first thought. Despite the veteran presence of Jonathan Hefney and Jovon Johnson, the Blue have been easy to play against in 2012. That's certainly a switch from last season when the Bombers D developed a well-deserved reputation as the league's cockiest group.

Opening ceremony.
Performance comes above partying for many Canadian athletes

Canadian swimming star Mark Tewksbury watched the opening ceremony of the 1992 Barcelona Olympics from the cafeteria of the athletes' village.

Tewksbury, who won gold at those Games in the 100-metre backstroke, was hoping to get a leg-up on the competition by saving his legs from what he knew would be a long and physically taxing night.

"I got to the cafeteria and my main competitors were all there watching on TV too," said Tewksbury, Canada's chef de mission at the London Games. "But it was OK. I won it by six one hundredths so who knows? That might have been the six hundredths I would have lost."

Many of Canada's athletes are skipping Friday's opening ceremony, some because they're competing the next day, others because they're housed in locations that are too far a trek from the stadium.

"Some people really get lifted by it and some people think the physical drain is too much," Tewksbury said. "It's a personal choice."

"The whole point of the Olympics is performance. That's the memory you want to take for the rest of your life and you've still got the closing (ceremony). The closing is there and it's really the athletes' ceremony. It's awful to walk in an opening and regret it because it impacted your performance."

The ceremony at Olympic Stadium, directed by Danny Boyle — the Oscar-winning director of Slumdog Millionaire — is scheduled to begin at 9 p.m. local time (12 p.m., CTV) and end at midnight. Most of the athletes will be able to walk back to their housing, which is adjacent to Olympic Park, but it still puts them back at the village as late as 12:30 a.m.

Triathlon athlete Simon Whitfield of Victoria will lead Canada into the ceremony as the team's flag-bearer. They are expected to leave the village at 9 p.m. and enter Olympic Stadium at 10:15.

Canada's swim team won't march in the ceremony, meaning freestyler Brent Hayden will be three-for-three in giving the Olympic opening ceremony a pass.

"It's always kind of team policy that if you're competing within the first few days you tend to skip just because you're not going to get to bed at a reasonable hour," Hayden said. "Standing up for hours on end, tiring your legs out is not necessarily the best thing to do before a competition. We all wish we could be there. We are all very patriotic and we would just love to be able to walk into the stadium with our country, waving our flags, but we're here to compete."

Bond: What to expect at opening ceremony

Thursday. JEFF J MITCHELL/GETTY IMAGES

There will be sheep. A cricket game. Nurses. Plus Paul McCartney and possibly James Bond.

Officials want details of the 27-million pound ($42.3 million US) London Olympics opening ceremony to be a secret so that viewers can be surprised, but director Danny Boyle has already disclosed select details: Real farm animals on meadows, plows and maypoles, an idyllic picture of England as the "green and pleasant land," a dance number featuring nurses and a closing song by McCartney.

Reports are also suggesting a pre-recorded segment filmed inside Buckingham Palace featuring actor Daniel Craig as Bond, and a stuntman dressed as 007 who will parachute into the stadium to start the show. Later, the pastoral first act will be replaced by a grim scene re-enacting a coal-blackened, industrial Britain.

Here are four opening ceremony highlights to watch out for on Friday:

Boyle's sweeping vision

The ceremony's mastermind, filmmaker Danny Boyle, has stressed that the three-hour show will take viewers on a sweeping journey through Britain's history, one that captures the nation's identity, values and heritage, as well as its present and future. In their own ways, each of the elements represents some aspect of Englishness — though some in quirkier ways than others.

Un-baah-lievable opening co-stars

Seventy sheep are set to star in the ceremony, alongside 12 horses, 10 chickens and three sheep dogs. Pastoral life has long been romanticized by British writers and at every patriotic event, Britons belt out the glories of "England's pleasant pastures" to William Blake's anthem Jerusalem.

Maypoles

Each of Great Britain's four nations — England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland — will be represented by a maypole topped with their national flowers. A pagan folk symbol, the maypole is still commonly erected in British villages during May Day celebrations (as well as elsewhere in Europe) to celebrate the return of warmer weather.

Bond-ing Britain with the world

Fast cars, many women, martinis shaken not stirred: The super spy 007 needs little introduction. First introduced by writer Ian Fleming in 1953, the fictional British secret agent is the protagonist in the longest-running film franchise. Expectations running high for team after struggles in past Games

Canada's swimmers are demanding more of themselves at the Summer Olympics.

After no medals in 2004 and one bronze in 2008, Canada's team of 33 athletes is targeting three medals and swimmers in 13 to 15 finals in London.

"It's completely different," backstroker Julia Wilkinson said Thursday. "Four years ago, it was 'We hope we can make some finals.'

"Now it's 'Who is going to be the first one to win a medal?' We've kind of come in with this swagger and we believe we can do it."

As though to punctuate her point, the Stratford, Ont., swimmer had her nails painted red, white and gold this week.

Swimming starts Saturday and runs for eight days. The open-water races, which are ten-kilometre swims, will be contested in the second week.

Victoria's Ryan Cochrane prevented a second straight shutout in the pool in Beijing when he won bronze on the last day of competition. Wilkinson was about to race a relay and recalls she and her teammates were stunned to tears by Cochrane's medal.

There will be no shock and awe this time, according to the head of Swimming Canada.

"I don't have a crystal ball," said chief executive officer Pierre Lafontaine. "I can tell you the Canadian kids in our lanes are going to walk pretty tall and they're going to feel they belong in that pool. They're not going to get intimidated by much." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bolt says he's been slowed by bad back

Usain Bolt finally confessed there has been something wrong. It was his back.

The Olympic champion said Thursday a bad back has been causing him hamstring problems, leading to a pair of losses to training partner Yohan Blake at the Jamaican trials.

"It was a slight problem. I got that fixed and I'm ready to go," Bolt said in his first formal media appearance of the London Games, where he was given the honour of carrying his country's flag at Friday's opening ceremony.

Bolt lost to Blake twice at the recent Jamaican trials in both the 100 and his favoured 200 metres. The setbacks fuelled speculation that he was injured but haven't dampened expectation that he will retain his 100 and 200 gold medals.

Bolt also dismissed talk that he had been training away from TV cameras and reporters at the Jamaican team camp in central England because he is injured.

"I'm always ready," he said. "It's all about the championship. It's never about the trials, everyone knows that. My coach doesn't like the cameras. He likes to keep me away from the cameras."

Bolt was scheduled to appear alongside Blake and other athletes at the event in the heart of east London, but travel problems held some of them up, the Jamaican Olympic Association said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Forget about your people skills today and do what feels right to you personally. The more you make an effort to be nice to certain individuals, the more likely it is they will take it as a sign of weakness.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Whatever has caused you to subdue your feelings and become a bit emotionally distant in recent days, you are advised not to take it too seriously. The Earth turns and everything will look different, and better, tomorrow.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Adopt a no-nonsense nature today, especially when dealing with people whose negative attitudes can drive you to despair. The more they try to convince you that something terrible is happening, the more you should laugh at them.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
There is no point getting caught in a battle of wills with someone in a position of power. They will win and you will lose, it's that simple. Let them call the shots.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Cosmic activity in your own sign encourages you to believe that you can do anything. But you will accomplish more in the long-term if you focus on one particular talent.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
You know it pays to be honest but because you are uncertain how some people might react if you tell them the truth, you are reluctant to open your mouth. That's a mistake. They need your input, so speak up.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
It may annoy you that certain people don't take your ideas seriously but it's their loss. There are options open to you now — and you don't need anyone's help but your own.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
Why are you so reluctant to take the advice of a friend? Most likely it's because you don't want to admit that you made the wrong choice. But what's the big deal? You're human like everyone else.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
You may need to force yourself to be enthusiastic about what you are expected to do, but it's an effort worth making. The better the job you do, the more likely it is you will be offered something more interesting later on.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Your confidence may not be up to its usual levels at the moment but it's not the end of the world. If you encounter the kind of opposition that makes you feel uncomfortable, just back off a bit. You've got plenty of time.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
Admit it: You have bitten off more than you can chew and now you are looking around for a way out. Well, that's too bad because there isn't one. Do the best you can and live with the consequences.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
You will let someone know that you don't want to argue but they are hell bent on having it out with you. In which case you might as well tell them what you really think. SALLY BROMPTON
